Wirraminna News

Wirraminna is not all about plants. In the Discovery Centre we have fish tanks and a refrigerated Frog aquarium. They house fish which are becoming uncommon in the Murray Valley. The aquariums were constructed with funding from the Murray-Darling Basin Authority. They house small fish species which are no longer commonly found in the billabongs on the floodplain because of changes in the flood regime, land management and the impact of carp.

The most endangered species is the Southern Pygmy Perch, which now only survives in the headwaters of a couple of creeks in the upper catchment where they are protected from Redfin by small weirs. We have a couple of these little fish, and are expecting to receive more, courtesy of Luke Pearce of NSW Fisheries.

(Above left) Tank 1 is the Olive Perchlets. These little fish were once widespread throughout the Murray-Darling system, but are now found only in a few restricted areas in the Darling and Lachlan River catchments and are listed as endangered in NSW. They are semi-transparent and very shy, and are hard to spot in the tank unless you stand very still for a while.

(Above right) Tank 2 is home to our catfish, and it is hard to miss. It is always on the hunt for food, rarely still, and expects to be fed if anyone stands in front of the tank. Catfish used to be very abundant in the Murray until the 1980's, but carp have had a dramatic effect on them and they are now listed as an endangered population. Catfish lay their eggs in nests in areas of still water and where they are easily found by carp.

Tank 3 contains Purple-spotted Gudgeons and a couple of Southern Pygmy Perch. The Gudgeons used to be widespread in the Murray- Darling Basin and NSW coastal Rivers, but there are very few records since the 1980s except in the upper catchment in Border Ranges in Queensland. The main causes of their decline are believed to be: Redfin, carp and Gambusia, water level fluctuations due to the changing irrigation supply flows, and declining water due to increased turbidity and agricultural run-off. The Purple-spotted Gudgeon is listed as an Endangered Species in NSW/

Tank 4 is home to the Australian Rainbow Fish. This species, along with other more northern species of Rainbow fish are very popular aquarium fish, and readily breed in captivity. It is rare locally, but still occurs in parts of its wide range across the southern Murray-Darling Basin.

As well as fish, we are custodians to 7 Corroboree Frogs. These are very rare in their natural environment, on the high plains around Mt Kosciuszko, but have been bred in Zoos to prevent their extinction until a way is found to return them safely to the wild. They are very sensitive to the introduced Chytrid fungus, which has already caused the extinction of a few other frog species. Luckily many Australian frogs are resistant to Chytrid, but they can carry it and are a constant threat to susceptible species like the Corroboree frogs. Research is continuing to, hopefully, find a way to make them resistant. Meanwhile, thanks to Taronga Park Zoo, we have our frogs here for people to see, even though they spend a lot of time buried under the moss. But lucky viewers may see one crawling around in the open; and they can be identified individually by the patterns of their stripes, which are all different.

Finally, we have several other frog species living in the ponds in the gardens; lately Perons Tree Frog has been moving in on us; and probably many Burrumbuttock residents have had the same experience!

HARMONY DAY

Students at Burrumbuttock Public School celebrated Harmony Day with other students from across the Walbundrie Small Schools Network at Walla Public School last week.

Harmony Day is a celebration of our cultural diversity – a day of cultural respect for everyone who calls Australia home.

Harmony Day is a good way to get to know about other cultures that we have not learned about before.

Harmony day is a good way to celebrate other people and their cultures.

We got to make Roti Bread which is a flatbread native to the Indian subcontinent. I liked the roti bread it tasted like pancakes.

We all loved getting henna tattoos! Henna is mainly used in celebrations of special occasions such as wedding. It symbolises good health and prosperity. Henna Art is practiced all over the world with different regions having different styles and traditions.

African Drumming was a BIG hit! The students enjoyed listening to the stories from the presenters. They especially enjoyed the story about the ancient tree !

Golden Oldies

In March 1993, part of Albury's Festival of Sport a weeklong cricket competition was held for the Golden Oldies. Players had to be over forty years old.

Competition teams came from Canada, England as well as local and interstate. It was a great week.

The local team comprised from Walla Walla and Burrumbuttock. The players put the fierce competitive past years aside to form a team known as The Walbutt Willows! Games were won and some lost in the week. A few days saw the heat tell on the amazing talent on display.

A thirty-year reunion of The Walbutt Willows was held on Sunday 5th March 2023, at Jindera Hotel. Eight members who attended remembered their absent mates and enjoyed recounting the weeklong festivities. Some came with the souvenir bat, score sheets and photos. A few are in their eighties, they talked of another get together next year while they are still able to remember their wonderful feats of thirty years ago....!!

Burrumbuttock Preschool

We have been engaging in lots of Science together in recent weeks with colour being involved. We have mixed colours and investigated how colours move into the petals of white flowers by putting them into colours water. We will also be looking into how colour (so therefore water) moves up the stem of a celery stalk to end the term. Fleur even had us predict what 2 of the primary colours would make and then test our own prediction. You are never too young to become a Scientist.

We also believe at Burrumbuttock Preschool that children are very capable beings and if we challenge them and give them the opportunity to try things and take risks within a supportive learning environment then we will continue to help children become confident and capable learners at Preschool and throughout their lives.

We will build and create with just about anything. We are currently enjoying using a mix of wooden blocks with natural pieces of wood and also plastic sample cups to create with, as pictured below. If you have something that you think we might use at Preschool please either bring it in or give us a ring to ask about it. There is honestly not much that we will not use and if we cannot think of a use for something then we will put it into the shed until we do.

We still have very limited number of vacancies on each day, please give us a ring if you would like to come and have a look at the Preschool in action or to ask us some questions on 60293343 or 0480186371.

Brock-Burrum Netball Club

Gday Saints! What a busy month it has been! Here is what the netball club has been up to lately: Round 1! The start of the season is only 3 weeks away, and our senior and junior teams have been working hard at training to be ready by the 15th of April, when we will meet Billabong Crows at Brock. We started our preparation for the start of the season by taking part in a practice match against the Wodonga Saints on the 23rd of March at Kelly Park in Wodonga. This was a great opportunity to test ourselves against some quality netball teams from the Wodonga Saints. Well done to the 4 senior teams and the U17s and U15s who participated.

Some exciting news on the coaching front! We finally have a complete list of coaches! We can announce our U11s coach is Lisa Burns. With a wealth of netball knowledge, we can't wait to see what Lisa can do this season with the upcoming superstars of our club!

We have a couple of Saints we need to congratulate! Firstly, a big well done to Mim Dunstan, who was selected in the Hume Leagues first ever Regional League Team. Mim and the Regional Team will travel to Griffith on the 1st and 2nd of April to play against other associations in the Riverina.

Also a big congratulations goes to Layne Griparis, who was selected in the 2023 Bendigo Academy of Sport- Netball Academy. Layne and her rep team have been training at Shepparton, ready for an Inter-academy day in Melbourne later in the year.

Great Job Layne and Mim!

What we're all really excited for is some club bonding! We have a club bonding session organised for this Sunday, the 2nd of April, at the Wodonga Bowls Club for some football netball barefoot bowls! Again, this is a good chance to come together before round 1 as a club and socialise.

That's about it from me.

Go Saints

Burrumbuttock Anglers Club.

Due to council changes to camp permits and costing for 12Mile, this year's social weekend was held at Hoge's uncle's property on the weir at Talgarno. Our hosts welcomed us Friday afternoon and had kindly mown the camping ground for us, while junior vice president Peter Hogan, continued on from our hosts by mowing (almost) the rest of the camping ground in an effort to provide a path to the water.

Club member Charlie got into a bit of trouble when he got bogged putting his boat in the water at camp, rather than using the boat ramp 400m away. Ooops.

The weather (17-19th March) turned out to be probably the hottest we've had all summer and we're no longer in summer! Nevertheless, it was good to be out on the water. Not a heap of fish caught. A couple of reddies were bagged and a few more carp cleared out of the weir including a 66cm "stinker" caught by Gus. Gus also enjoyed spending all his awake-time that weekend, on his kayak. Taco caught his very first fish and was pretty happy with himself.

Awards went to: Emma for junior angler. Georgia for junior no fish and Ross for senior angler.

Thank you all and we'll see you out there again soon. Check out Burrumbuttock Anglers Club on Facebook for updates on our next outing/events.
