Wirraminna News

After a wet spring and early summer, the dry times have come again. Most of the park is still showing the lush growth that has been quite lovely but there is now a lot of pruning to be done as many of the shrubs are taking up more than their share of space. Watering has begun for the newly established plants. This is a quiet time for flowers, before the autumn bloomers get going but a quick walk around found a couple of Grevillea, a couple of *Eremophila*s, and a Geebung, or Persoonia, which is just developing its beautiful gold and green display in the Art and Craft bed.

A good follow up from the visit by Costa a few weeks ago, has been an arrangement for a propagation day for the school students. They have a plan to extend their native garden, so Sue Rose will show them how to sow seeds of a range of wildflowers and native grasses, using seed from our Seed Production Area. They will use a range of species. Some are reliable and easy to germinate, but a few are more challenging and it will be exciting if they can have success with them.

Restoring the diversity of the ground cover species in native woodland is the most difficult conservation challenge we face. Trees and shrubs are fairly easy, but if we want to bring back all the different wildlife species, including the smaller birds, lizards and insect life, we need to reintroduce as many of the original wildflowers and grasses as we can. These are the basis of the network of life and represent the ultimate goal we have for the natural areas of Wirraminna such as the dam bank. There are still a lot of weeds to control, but we now have an increasing supply of seed of some of the important species that we want to introduce.

We have a big change for the rest of the year as Stacey goes on Maternity Leave shortly. We are very happy for her and the increase in her family, and are looking for one or two wonderful people who can step into her shoes, to run school visits, and for administration tasks. We are expecting to have about 20 school visits again this year. These school visits are among the most important activities we have at Wirraminna, giving students from Kinder to Year 6, the opportunity to learn about the natural environment with a range of age relevant activities.

The dam is looking its best at present, and as well as providing valuable water sopping for the gardens, it is a Thriving ecosystem in itself, and attracts quite a few birds.

Recipe Page ...

With an abundance of tomatoes this season, this is a very simple and delicious recipe that can be varied with the addition of fresh herbs, mushrooms, etc. and can also be used in pizzas.

Tomato pasta sauce

1kg ripe tomatoes, cored seeded, chopped, can be peeled

2 onions, sliced

4 cloves garlic, sliced

½ cup olive oil

Salt

Freshly ground black pepper

Red chilli – optional

Tumble tomatoes, onion, and garlic with oil and spread in a baking dish.

Bake, tightly covered, at 180 degrees C until tomatoes have collapsed and skins are golden brown and juices flowing – at least one hour.

Season to taste. Fresh herbs, olives, capers, etc can be added after cooking when combining with cooked pasta.

Recipe can be easily doubled, but don't double the amount of oil.

Freezes well.

Description – Zucchini Slice

Try this easy recipe for a one-dish zucchini slice.

It's tasty, quick and there'll be minimal cleaning up.

It's a win-win.

1 cup self-raising flour

2 medium zucchini, grated

6 free range eggs

425g canned no-added-salt chickpeas, drained

1 cup shredded tasty cheese

100g Woolworths leafy mix salad

Method: Preheat oven to 200°C/180°C fan-forced.

Grease and line a 22 x 28cm (6cm deep) baking dish with baking paper. Place flour in dish. Season with pepper. Add two-thirds of the zucchini and toss to combine. Add eggs and chickpeas, then mix with a fork until well combined. Scatter over cheese and remaining zucchini. Bake for 25 minutes or until golden and set. Slice and serve with salad leaves.

Garden Harvest

The students had a great time in the garden harvesting potatoes and corn.

They peeled, cut and cooked the vegetables in the kitchen.

Then possibly the best part—they got to eat and enjoy it!

If you would like any potatoes from our school garden, please see the office.

Our school expectations are based on the acronym PRIDE :

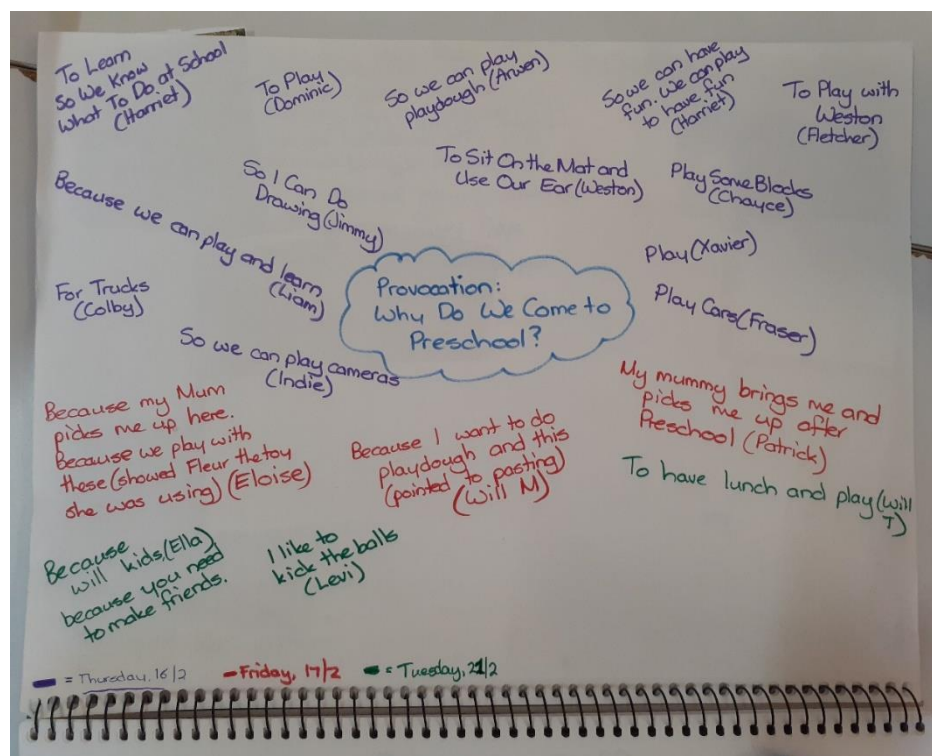

- P- Play safely in the right areas
- R- Respect others and their things
- I- Instructions of teachers are to be followed
- D- Do all your work to the best you can
- E- Expect and use good manners

We will be continuing to work with students based on these 5 expectations to create a positive learning culture and a happy and safe environment at Burrumbuttock Public School.

Burrumbuttock Preschool

We have been busy creating a Children's Philosophy to link to our Service Philosophy, both of which will help to guide our practise throughout the year. We have asked the children "Why Do We Come to Preschool?" and recorded our answers in our Big Project Book. We have also purchased wooden cameras from Kmart. Fleur initially bought 2 as she was not sure how the children would use them as most people use their phone to take photos. Well lets just say on the first day Jimmy nicely suggested Fleur she could buy one for everyone. We decided that would cost a little too much but we have purchased 4 more to share. Liam looked through the main lens which is multi faceted last week and announced that "2 Fleur's are better than one" This filled Fleur's bucket but she is also pretty sure that many people she knows probably think that one Fleur is quite enough in their lives. Fleur's bucket was also filled with love when she was recently presented with a lovely bunch of flowers and a surprise morning tea to celebrate her 10 years at the Burrumbuttock Preschool. Thanks to the Management Committee, Staff and Children and yes it is hard to believe it has been 10 years.

The children were very excited to harvest a cucumber last week from our Vegetable garden and we enjoyed tasting it (well many of us did).

We still have some vacancies on each day so please let anyone who may want to access our service that they can ring us to come and have a look at what we do.

Local Land Services

Media Release

Murray landholders asked to watch for locusts and report

With much grass and vegetation available this season, Local Land Services is urging landholders to be on the lookout for locust activity and report any sightings immediately.

Locust activity has been slowly ramping up across the Murray, with some banding already observed, said Murray Local Land Services Team Leader, Peter O'Shannassy.

"We're urging landholders to be vigilant and report any banding and swarming to their Local Land Services office," Mr O'Shannassy said.

"Our staff and local farmers have already started spraying in the Savernake, Rennie and Mulwala areas following sightings of bands reported by the community."

Bands are small at this stage and likely hard to see due to the amount of vegetation in paddocks, however reporting is essential to manage the issue.

"We expect Murray will have locusts at all stages, from hatching to laying adults, scattered across much of the district," Mr O'Shannassy said.

"However, they are generally not being detected until they cross open ground, like roads."

Controlling banding locusts now will help reduce their impact later in the year

If not controlled, plague locusts can cause significant damage to crops and pastures by consuming all in their path.

"Bands are there now to be controlled, which will help lessen their impact on emerging crops in the autumn," Mr O'Shannassy said.

"This is why community reporting is essential —reports are used to forecast locust movements, breeding, impacts and required control strategies."

Local Land Services biosecurity staff are trained in the identification of locust biology and control, and available to help landholders implement control measures with advice and pesticides

On-ground treatment by landholders once locusts begin to 'band', is by far the best and most effective treatment option to limit new swarms.

If you suspect Australian plague locusts, please contact your nearest Local Land Services office on 1300 795 299.

Brock-Burrum Netball Club

Here we are at the end of February and it is starting to smell a lot like netball. It's about now I start wishing I had done some more fitness during the offseason, as our regular netball trainings have commenced. We have made some massive progressions into our season in the last month and we are looking at even more advances in the next few weeks.

Our biggest development of season 2023 has been the completion of our senior trials. Our awesome coaches were able to divide the girls into 2 squads, a C/Cres squad and an A/B squad.

Trials are difficult on a normal day, but this year the girls made it even harder to pick teams, bringing their best quality netball to our trials. A big thanks has to go to our 2 Independent selectors, who were able to assist our coaches in the 2 weeks of trials. Also a high five must go to our coaches, who were able to conduct fair and unbiased trials.

Speaking of trials, we have had an unprecedented number of juniors attending our junior Meet and Greet night on the 16th of Feb. While we are loving the junior interest in our club, this means we will need to hold junior trials for multiple teams.

We wish all these junior girls the very best of netball selections !

We attended the City2City on the 19th of Feb as a football and netball club bonding session. We participated in the 7.5km Walk and Talk section of the day and were happy to see the red, black and white colours peeking through the crowds. We were also fortunate enough to be awarded Sporting Club Winner of the day! A big thank you goes to those who registered and walked with us, and also thanks to Anne-Marie Hoodless for organising our team for this event.

Lastly, we must congratulate our Madame President Rachel Kosi on her engagement to fellow Saint, Tim Heagney.

We love a Saints wedding!

That's about it from me.

Go Saints!
