Policy Content
As a public agency, Greater Hume Council is bound by the regulations and requirements of the State Records Act 1998. The Act sets out codes of best practice to which Council must comply. Failure to do so could leave Council open to criticism in an investigation – whether by a Minister, a Royal Commission, an auditor or a law enforcement body. State Records legislation requires Greater Hume Council to make and keep records that fully and accurately document operations and administration.

Why we need ‘full and accurate’ records:

i. Facilitate action by employees at any level, and by their successors;
ii. Make possible a proper scrutiny of the conduct of business by anyone authorised to undertake such scrutiny, and,
iii. Protect the financial, legal and other rights of the organisation, its clients and any other people affected by its actions and decisions.
iv. To comply with all external requirements relating to record keeping practices.

To be a ‘full and accurate’ record the Australian Standards,

Records are a vital ingredient in the support of Council’s ongoing business activities. Effective management and preservation of Council’s corporate memory is intrinsic to both the decision making process and productivity within Council.

Disposal of Records
Records must be protected, maintained, findable, and useable for their entire retention period, as outlined in the General Authority 39 (GA 39), Local Government Records.

Records cannot be disposed of other than in accordance with the State Records Act 1998, GA 39 and Greater Hume Council, Disposal Procedures. Records cannot be disposed of without the concurrence of the Manager Corporate Services.

The State Records Act 1998 (NSW) requires public officers to ‘make and keep full and accurate records’ of their business activities.

Poor recordkeeping practices within the public sector contribute to inefficiencies and poor decision making. Poor recordkeeping means that evidence may not even exist or may not be adequate to meet council requirements for accountability. Records are vital for ongoing business and for internal and public accountability.

The NSW Public Sector Code of Conduct requires that public officials should ‘maintain adequate documentation to support any decision made’ in the performance of their duties.
