It's show time!

Ag shows are a vital part of our communities and bring people together to show case their passions whatever that may be. Henty Show Society members have been working hard all year to present the next annual show to you.

There will be lots of food to choose from at the barbecue shed and Henty Public School canteen, as well as a drink at the bar. The main pavilion offers displays of something for everyone - craft, painting, sewing, knitting, flower arrangements, jams fruit and vegetables, eggs, cooking, school arts and poetry, and photography.

There are old favourites such as bush markets, rides, side shows, the show and shine, an antique machinery display including the reappearance in Henty of "Wetterns" steam road train and new activities such as Al's Skates and Old Kentucky Farm.

Steve Bowen, the Master of Ceremonies, will lead the crowd through the different events — children's pet show, teddy parade, children's dress-up, baby show, show girl/boy quest, paper plane competition, whip-cracking, sheaf-tossing, dog-jumping and more.

Don't forget the horse program that is always a crowd favourite. There will be poultry, cattle and sheep sections.

This year the Henty Show Society is proud to present Australia's inaugural gathering of Valais black-nosed sheep (also known as "the world's cutest sheep"). The lambs have to be seen to be believed.

So put Saturday, February 10, in your calendar and come to see the Henty Show, a fun event for the whole family.

For more information, please see the society's Facebook page: www.facebook.com/HentyShowpage or call the secretary on 02 6929 3219 or 0408 090 900.

Big CWA presence at show

Henty's branch of the CWA ended the 2023 year with an enjoyable Christmas lunch at the Henty Community Club on December 8. This year's first meeting will be held at the Community Club on Friday, February 9, at 1pm. This is a new venue as the CWA has outgrown the space available at the library.

The Henty Show is fast approaching, and seven branches are entering the CWA competition, up from three branches last year - Albury, Collingullie, Ganmain, Oura, Pleasant Hills, The Rock and Henty. Each branch will be exhibiting a collection of seven articles demonstrating their members' skills in sewing, art, cooking, floral arrangements, knitting, crocheting, and crafts of all kinds.

A street stall is to be held in conjunction with Henty's Evening branch in March or April, date yet to be confirmed. The CWA will donate the funds raised to Carevan. This charity addresses community issues such as homelessness, social isolation and food insecurity in the Riverina region.

Also, in February, the Pleasant Hills, Henty Evening, and Henty branches will be partnering with the Henty IGA to establish a drop-off point for non-perishable items (food, baby products, sanitary products etc). Donated items will be donated to Carevan and other groups addressing food insecurity in the Riverina and Henty areas. Watch for more details of these two initiatives on the Community Notice Boards in Henty's shopping area.

Anyone interested in joining Henty's CWA branch should call or text Janet Beverley at 0475 390 341 or Terri Taylor at 0431379 364 for more details.

241 wraps despatched

The grand total of wraps for Wraps With Love in 2023 was 241, for a new record, with 57 coming from the Hostel Knit Wits. Some people make a wrap by themselves with 28 x 25cm squares, others knit the squares and give them to Pam Green, the hostel co-ordinator, who oversees the sewing together of the squares. They are often colour co-ordinated.

A former Henty resident, Dusty, had donated bags of wool which are being “devoured” by our knitters. Alice Hore is a great contributor of squares and Helen Squires loves crocheting the thicker or fancier yarn. Her latest wrap features cerise mohair, given by Lois Biti. Nothing goes to waste.

Bev Poole is still winding wool from skeins into easily manageable balls. Daisy, at the hospital, is still crocheting squares.

Thank you Alison Campbell for all your deliveries to Wagga.

Sunglasses for sailors

Even though the weather may be a bit hot for beanie knitting, some folks are knitting in air-conditioned comfort while watching sport on TV.

The Seafarers' Mission is so grateful for the monthly bags of about 60 beanies that a thank you phone call is always received by co-ordinator Yvonne. December's parcel took only four days to reach the mission.

World crises often hit seafarers hardest and fastest—the pandemic, Ukraine war, turmoil in the Red Sea and now the Israel-Gaza war.

End of year donations of over $14,000 helped purchase sunglasses as a special gift in the seafarers gift bags. When you lose your sunglasses due to 10-20 metre waves there is no shop to buy new ones.

Henty knitters contributed $300 to the sunglasses appeal and a call for help to source quality eye ware resulted in Brad Booth of Workwear Leeton supplying some at a substantial discount. Christmas carols singalongs and time to rest and connect with other seafarers from around the world were enjoyed by hundreds of seafarers who visited the Sydney centre, including 250 from cruise ships. The simple act of kindness in giving a gift or a place to rest brought many smiles to men and women working tough lonely hours at sea far away from families, whom they are trying to rescue from poverty.

Raffle ends Lions busy year

In December, as their final fundraiser for 2023, Henty Lions conducted their annual Jumbo Christmas Stocking raffle. The stocking was full to overflowing with an amazing array of items containing something for everybody. There were enough items left to create a substantial second prize.

The contents were kindly donated by the business houses of Henty, generous citizens and Lions members. The club is very grateful for the support of all these people. Along with the Christmas Stocking Raffle, Lions were selling the ever-popular Lions Christmas cakes. The raffle was drawn on the Friday before Christmas and was a welcome early Christmas present for Elaine Scholz and Travis Kilo, who won first and second prize respectively.

water bombs. There was a coffee van present serving coffee, milkshakes and sundaes. Once again, the Lions Club was there providing a sausage sizzle and cold drinks before Carols started. It was a perfect night weather wise and Lions did a roaring trade. They even had to send out for extra sausages and bread to keep up with the demand.

The Lions' final activity for the year was a Christmas barbecue at Lion Garry's home for Lions members and loyal supporters. A great night of celebrating and conversations. A time to relax and contemplate the Lions achievements for 2023.

As always, Lions welcomes new members and pay tribute to all those "friends of Lions", including wives and husbands of our existing day evenings of each month. It's not, "all work and no play"; with alternate dinner and business meetings. For further details, see any of our members or call in to see Lion Ken at Dales Electrical.

Recently Henty Lions and the Henty and District Lifestyle Centre members and patrons combined to conduct a sausage sizzle at Bunnings in Wagga Wagga which will provide much needed funds for projects dear to the hearts of those involved in both organisations.

The Lions club looks forward to the visit in late February of the District Governor when he will be a guest speaker at their dinner meeting.

2024 presents an opportunity for Henty Lions to once again live up to the motto of Lions International that is, "We Serve". They look forward to serving the community and further afield with optimism. As a wise person once said, concerning the start of a new year: "We all get the exact same 365 days. The only difference is what we do with it".

Garry Small and Lorri Roden get into the Christmas spirit.

The annual Carols in the Henty Park was a great community event which was held on the weekend before Christmas. The carols were preceded by some children's activities: face painting, lucky dip and members and members of the community who volunteer their time and energy to enable Henty Lions to undertake fund-raising activities.

Inspiring story of adversity overcome

Probus president Yvonne Booth welcomed everyone to the January meeting which was told of the death of member Ron Gardiner. Herb has made a clever chime to guide the minute of silence. Ron would have appreciated such thoughtfulness.

The theme for the meeting was Australia Day. Tables were decorated with flags and native greenery. The meeting started with a clever ditty, spoken and sung about "God Save the Thong". Mary then provided a poem "I am a Nation" followed by discussion about the Cherry Ripe bar being 100 years old. There were samples which was another nice thought.

The five-minute speaker was Ian Lieschke. Ian was born in Australia and attended the Merri Merric School then Henty and to St Paul's for secondary school. After school finished, Ian went to visit cousins in Perth and learned to drive a big tractor pulling 2 x 18 discs. He later did fruit picking at Shepparton.

Yvonne presented Ian with the Probus pen and congratulated him on his exactly timed five-minute speech.

Next was a poem called "Green and Gold Malaria" read by Julia Collie. The poem is on the internet read by author Rupert McCall for those who would like to share. Morning tea was tiny lamingtons with jam and cream and Vegemite biscuits added to the usual Arnotts biscuits.

The main speaker was Aaron McCarthy who shared the speech with his wife Tahnee. They told of Aaron's rehabilitation after having a farm machinery accident, where he had the lower portion of his leg removed. They spoke of overcoming adversity and turning it to advantage.

The meeting saw footage of Aaron learning to walk with his new prosthesis. There was much thanks given to those who raised funds to assist and to family and friends, the farming community and emergency services.

Aaron had been an A-grade tennis player and now plays from a wheelchair as he does playing basketball and football. He has a particular interest in para snowboarding using a special prosthesis for action sports.

Aaron still has his farm and can do most jobs required. His goal is to be sports person of the year for Lockhart Council. He shows great resilience and determination as does his wife Tahnee, his children and extended family. They support fund raising for Para Athletes.

Kevin Knoble presented Probus pens to Aaron and Tahnee and a big thank you from the club for sharing their story of great success in rehabilitation after a most serious injury.

The February meeting on the second Wednesday is planned for the Culcairn bowling club, 9.30am for a 10am start. It is hoped have a police representative to talk about scams. The public is welcome to attend.

Beanie contest in June

The Henty Creative Gallery will hold a Beanie Festival/Competition in June of this year. Adult beanies need to be at Dales Electrical Store by May 25 for display at the gallery during June. An opening evening will be held on June 4 to view the array of headgear, in four categories - just a beanie; colourful; novelty; and down by the seaside, a theme related to the Seafarers' Mission

There will be good prizes for all sections. Already promised are beanies from interstate, South Coast, Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane, Wagga and Albury.

Happy New Year to all from the Henty MPS

Its hard to believe that we are already half way through January.

We have been busy in our gardens picking our vegetables and using them in our fresh Friday lunches. What are fresh Friday lunches I hear you ask. Every week we choose as a group what we would like to cook fresh on the Friday. Together with residents we cook this meal and then all sit together with staff at lunch and enjoy a meal together. Its such a happy time with a lot of laughter and chatter. Our resident Daisy (photo right) has tried a new vegetable to grow this year, Okra. It has been an interesting experiment for Daisy and one that has produced a lot of fruit. We have been lucky to have Lolita from Healthshare cook this up for us in a mince dish which was very tasty. You can also roast it and eat it sliced raw with salt.

We are also getting ready for the Henty Show. We have been out to pick apricots that we made jam with and we have also started to make pickles.

Outside in the garden area we have started a yarn wrapping project. With the small amount we have covered it has really lifted up the area with lots of colour. If you would like to knit something to add to our garden we would be very grateful. We have some wool here if you would like to help out. Just pop down and speak to Toni if you would like some or have something to add to our fences.

Postcards on frontline

Still the war between Russia and Ukraine continues so writers of encouragement to the Ukrainian soldiers (men and women) remain on the journey.

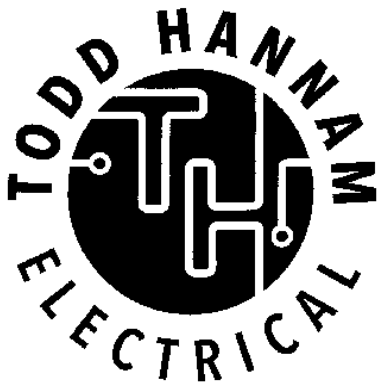

Over 9,000 postcards have left Melbourne to be distributed to the battlegrounds. So much destruction has occurred the fighters on the front receive words of love, hope and caring to boost their morale. They often share their postcards or swap them.

If you would like to send a postcard post your envelope to:

Postcards to the Front
PO Box 565
Williamstown 3016

Several cards can fit in one envelope. Scenic photos of Australia are good to use too.

Murderers, madmen and martyrs

The English had their highwaymen, the Americans their outlaws and the Australian equivalent, we had our bushrangers, variously labelled, "murderers, madmen or martyrs". They form a colourful and unforgettable part of our early history after European settlement, have featured in various songs, books, paintings and films and are enshrined in our folklore. Bushranging occurred all over Australia, to the extent that on occasions, the army was brought in to try and capture these rebels of society. Life was tough then and for a convict, particularly so. In the words of A/Prof. Maxwell Stuart of the University of Tasmania, "Australia was a prison without walls".

The men and women mentioned here are not in strict chronological order and comprise only a handful of the estimated 2,000 plus bushrangers who lived in and travelled throughout the Australian countryside.

After 1788, escapees, mostly English, Irish or Scottish convicts roamed the country, terrorising all and sundry, stealing from farms and robbing travellers on the rough tracks and roads in the colony. Life was hard, but the isolation and the vast areas of bushland proved a refuge for these men and women, from the authorities. Sometimes these outlaws captured the imagination of the public, some of whom proved to be sympathetic to these outlaws who dared to challenge the "establishment".

John "Black" Caesar was credited with being the first bushranger in this country. Caesar repeatedly escaped from Sydney Cove until he was shot dead in 1796. Born in Madagascar, having emigrated to England, he was tried, found guilty and sentenced to seven years imprisonment for stealing 240 shillings while employed as a servant there. The following year he was transported to Australia and disappeared into the bush shortly thereafter. Caesar was pardoned by Governor Phillip in 1790 and sent to Norfolk Island before returning to Botany Bay in 1793. A third escape saw John return soon and having again absconded to lead another gang of felons, he was shot by two men who had tracked him down to what is now the Sydney suburb of Strathfield, and subsequently died of his wounds in 1796.

Initially, the word "bushranger" appeared in a report about three criminals who held up a cart near Sydney in 1805. Many of the earlier bushrangers were escaped convicts, or the offspring of free settlers and later many chose to escape a life of persecution, poverty or a more exciting way of life than farming or mining.

Bold Jack Donahue, an Irish convict gained notoriety in 1827 for terrorising the travelling public on the road between Sydney and Windsor. Arriving as an 18-year-old to serve a life sentence on a farm near Parramatta, Donahue earned the reputation as being the worst bushranger in the colony, in the company of escaped convicts who stole from wealthy settlers. He was caught and escaped again to form a gang called the Wild Colonial Boys. He died in a shootout with a party of soldiers and police in September 1830.

A 'local' identity, bushranger Daniel Morgan, wanted, dead or alive, was feared and hated by many who knew him for his erratic behaviour, hot temper and his cruel and callous treatment of anyone who fell foul of him. Born John Owen in 1865 in Appin, NSW, Morgan embarked on a life of crime at an early age, stealing horses and later, cattle as well. An expert bushman and horseman he eluded the authorities, stealing many horses and property as well as holding up coaches.

In 1865 he shot a man near Albury, also another man he asked to ride for help after the incident and some months later, a policeman. Morgan operated in this region, hence the landmark near Walla Walla we know as Morgan's Lookout.

The memorial which stands beside the Pleasant Hills Road, west of Henty is a reminder to all who pass that Senior Sergeant Thomas Smyth who was shot and died there while trying to apprehend him.

Morgan was known to have demanded the three racehorses from the Post family, Cookendina Station, (near the village now called Cookardina). In April 1865 he held up the manager of Peechelba Station near Wangaratta and subsequently was shot by a stockman. He died the following day.

In 1976, the second film about Morgan entitled appropriately, 'Mad Dog Morgan' was released. Filmed in local locations including Morven, Culcairn, Walla Walla swamp, Woolshed Falls Beechworth, Little Billabong, and the abandoned Squatters Arms hotel at Cookardina. A star-studded cast included Dennis Hopper, Jack Thompson, David Gulpilil, and Frank Thring.

in the 1850s in fear at the time of the gold rush. His camp was near Maryborough in Victoria. The vast amounts of money generated during the gold rush, the isolation and general lawlessness on the diggings meant that stagecoaches, banks and businesses became attractive targets.

Douglas robbed and tortured many of the diggers who travelled to the Victorian goldfields. This was a time of opportunity, a chance to prey on the huge number of men working on the diggings, miners, the fortune seekers, crooks and con men. Bushranging flourished. Finally, in 1855 he was caught by 200 angry miners and spent the remainder of his life in Bendigo Jail, dying in 1892.

Known as "The Gentleman Bushranger" because he never resorted to violence, Martin Cash arrived in Sydney Harbour on a convict ship from Ireland in 1828, aged 18. Convicted of housebreaking he served his time and moved to Tasmania, (or Van Diemens Land, as it was called then), as a free man seven years later. Caught stealing, Cash was sentenced to another seven years in Port Arthur Jail, during which time he escaped, twice, and formed a gang, Cash and Co. He died in his sleep, aged 69 in August 1877.

Michael Howe, a disgraced British soldier was deported from England to Tasmania in 1812, escaped into the scrub and soon became a wanted man; stealing horses and robbing hapless travelers. He and a band of 29 renegades terrorised the countryside. With a price on his head of 105 pounds, Howe was ultimately killed by one of his fellow bushrangers on the bank of the Shannon River in what is now the Great Lakes, central Tasmania in October 1818.

Born in Ireland in 1842, Andrew George Scott, otherwise known as Captain Moonlight arrived in the colony of Victoria from New Zealand. He had been severely wounded in the Maori Wars while serving in the army there. At one stage a trainee priest in Sydney, Scott, however, was to embark on a life of crime - con man, bank robber, bushranger. In 1897, he and his gang held up 30 employees and family members on Wantabadgery Station, east of Wagga Wagga. One managed to escape and alerted the authorities. A pitched battle with firearms erupted and the police gave chase when the gang members fled the property. During the pursuit a policeman was shot and later died. To save his fellow gang members, Captain Moonlight surrendered, along with another man, was tried and sentenced to death by hanging for the murder of Constable Bowen. He died in 1880 and was buried in the North Gundagai cemetery. So ended the life of a man regarded as a "white collar criminal".

Another gentleman bushranger of note was Frederick Wordsworth Ward or 'Captain Thunderbolt' who was born in 1835. He was sent to Cockatoo Island in Sydney Harbour for stealing horses, finished his term and was subsequently arrested for the same offence and returned to Cockatoo Island, where he escaped by swimming ashore. He remained at large for longer than most of his contemporaries, ranging from the New England area to the Queensland border. Finally, in the swamp near Uralla he was fatally shot by an off-duty policeman in 1870.

Francis Christie alias Frank Gardiner, born in Scotland in 1830 teamed up with Ben Hall, (born in Maitland in 1837), and others to take part in the biggest robbery of gold and banknotes, making off with a haul worth $10 million today. They were not above stealing mobs of horses and holding up travelers on remote roads. Gardiner was caught, imprisoned and finally exiled whereby he sailed to America and died about 1882.

Ben Hall, whose territory stretched from Bathurst to Forbes and south to Gundagai, NSW, was finally ambushed and shot dead in 1865. Hall's body lies in the Forbes cemetery.

And nearly the last, but not least amongst some more of the most notorious and the best-known bushrangers was the infamous Ned Kelly and his gang, his younger brother Dan and friends Steve Hart and Joe Byrne. He was born in Victoria in 1855 to an impoverished Irish family. Leaving school and experiencing persecution and discrimination against his family, Ned turned to petty crime. His clashes with the police only heightened his resentment. He had many sympathisers, despite the gang shooting and killing three policemen and an informer between 1878 and 1880, robbing banks at both Euroa and Jerilderie and a train at Glenrowan. After a half-day siege at the Glenrowan Inn in 1880, Ned Kelly's compatriots died in the ensuing battle from smoke and gunfire and he was arrested and eventually hanged in Victoria's Old Melbourne Goal in November 1880. Despite his criminal record, many viewed him as a hero and a man who stood up against injustice and the establishment.

Less well known are the names of three Australian female bushrangers. The first was Elizabeth Jessie Hickman, the Lady Bushranger born in 1890, in NSW, who embarked in a life of crime at an early age, stealing cattle and hiding in mountainous country. Later, Jessie formed a gang and operated around the Moree district. She was in and out of jail and made some daring escapes. Finally, her health failed, she died in 1936 and is buried in an unmarked grave in Newcastle, NSW.

Mary Ann Bugg eldest child of assigned English convict James Bugg and his Aboriginal "wife" Charlotte was born in Gloucester in 1834. Mary Ann could claim the dubious title of being one of our most daring, resourceful and clever outlaws. Mary Ann, known as "The Captain's Lady", and Captain Thunderbolt were together for four years, having married in 1861. She and her children at one time rode with Captain Thunderbolt on their daring raids and were a force to be reckoned with before her death in Mudjee, New South Wales in 1905.

Tasmania was home to Mary Cockeril, an Aboriginal girl who was a member of Michael Howe's gang. Later, she was to be a tracker for the authorities to hunt down her former companions.

Scamwatch

Below is information from the Australian Government National Anti-Scam Centre website (<https://www.scamwatch.gov.au/types-of-scams>). The Centre raises awareness about how to recognise, avoid and report scams.

Information is available on the website on what action you should take if you think you have been scammed.

Below are types of scams and way scammers reach you.

1. Text or SMS

Text or SMS was the most reported contact method for scams last year. Scam messages sound urgent to get you to act quickly. They often have a link which will take you to a scam website.

Scammers can steal any personal information entered on these scam websites and use it to take your money or commit fraud in your name.

To make these message look real, scammers spoof (copy) the phone number and sender ID of businesses or people you know. Scam messages can even appear in the same message chain as real messages from the organisation, making them even harder to spot.

Warning signs

Stop and think. There's a good chance it's a scam if the message asks you to:

- take immediate action
- make a payment or transfer money
- click on a link or call a number provided in the message
- log on to an online account with your username and password or to provide other personal information.

2. Phone Scams – scam calls are more than annoying – they cost Australians $141 million in losses last year.

One in three reported scams happen by phone. Scammers call, claiming to be from well-known organisations. This includes government organisations, law enforcement, investment and law firms, banks and telecommunication providers.

They make it sound urgent to get to you act quickly. They may try to convince you to give them your personal or bank account details, or remote access to your computer. The caller may already have some details about you, such as your name or address.

Warning signs

Stop and think. It's probably a scam call if the caller:

- Asks for personal or financial information:
- payment or for you to move money between accounts
- your password, pin, one-time code, or some other security information
- credit card or banking details to process a refund or other 'overpayment'
- Wants you to install software or access a secure account on your mobile phone or computer
- Threatens you with immediate arrest, deportation, or blackmail etc.
- Suggests you or your accounts have been hacked or involved in fraud
- Tells you about a way to make quick, easy money with little risk or effort

3. Email scams - scam emails look like the real thing but watch out for links and attachments designed to steal your money or information

Australians lost $77 million to email scams last year. Scammers send 'urgent' emails pretending to be from the government, law enforcement and businesses.

They use the same logo and a similar email address as the real organisation. Scammers can also copy or "spoof" the email address of an organisation or business to make the scam email look more real.

Warning signs

Stop and think. There's a good chance it's a scam if the email:

- Contains a link or attachment that asks you to log on to an online service with your username and password or to provide other personal information
- Requests a payment but the bank account and BSB details are new or have changed since the last payment you made
- Claims to be from a well-known organisation or government agency, but is sent from a free webmail address (for example @gmail.com, @yahoo.com.au)

4. Social media scams - be suspicious of anyone who contacts you out of the blue on social media - scams losses are on the rise here

Australians reported losses of $80.2 million to social media scams last year - up 43% on the year before.

Scammers set up fake profiles on social media, messaging platforms and apps. They pretend to be from the government, a real business, employer, investment firm, or even a friend, family member or romantic interest.

They may:

- use the same logo of the real organisation or photo of the person they are pretending to be to make the scam harder to spot.
- impersonate famous people to 'recommend' goods or services
- create fake identities to befriend you and win your trust.

Scammers can also learn a lot about you from details you share on your social media accounts. They create quizzes or posts designed to deceive you into sharing personal information. They use this information to guess your account passwords or target you with other scams.

Warning signs

Stop and think. It could be a scam if the post or message:

- suggest a famous person endorses or supports a product or service
- come from someone you have only met online and urgently ask for money to help with a legal, medical, or business situation
- threatens to share a private image unless you pay them money.

5. Website scams Scammers can pretend to be anyone online to deceive you into trusting them

Australians lost $74 million to online scams last year.

Scammers create fake websites to look like well-known brands. They impersonate famous people and make it look like they recommend the product or service. They use fake reviews to make you trust them.

Advertising banners or pop-up windows that contain fake warnings or error messages can pressure you into acting.

Warning signs

Stop and think. It's probably a scam if the website:

- sells items at significantly lower prices than usual or compared to other sites
- has something unusual about the payment method, like only offering a single payment option or asking for payment in gift cards or Bitcoin
- only includes positive reviews or reviews that are light on detail
- has an urgent warning or error message that asks you to click a link
- advertises a way to make quick, easy money with little or no risk or effort

6. In-person scams - take place in person

Scammers may knock on your door or approach you in public and ask you to do something. They might:

- ask for upfront payment for goods and services
- pressure you into completing a survey to get your personal details
- ask for donations to a 'charity'.

Some door-to-door sales may not be a scam.

Warning signs

Stop and think. Does the person

- request payment via unsecure methods such as cash or gift cards?
  - refuse to provide receipts for goods, services, or charitable donations?
- If so, watch out - it sounds like a scam.
